
INTERACTIVE

Los Gatos teen wins “Singing with the Broadway stars” contest

By Karen D'Souza

Monday, April 21st, 2008 at 7:15 pm

San Jose Mercury News

Forget about Simon Cowell. There's no such thing as singing too Broadway for 15-year-old Parissa Koo of Los Gatos who just won the “Singing with the Broadway Stars” competition. Koo, along with eight other South Bay teens, has been invited to break into song with a slate of Broadway vets during Neil Berg's “100 Years of Broadway,” playing one show only on Tuesday, April 22, at the Flint Center in Cupertino. Koo is set to sing a solo in the show. Sing out Parissa!

One Response to “Los Gatos teen wins “Singing with the Broadway stars” contest”

Serena Koo Says:

April 23rd, 2008 at 12:39 pm

I am oh-so-proud of my older sister Parissa! We had a lot of fun up on the stage and Parissa was AH-MA-ZING singing her solo in Seasons of Love from Rent.

All I can say is this song will be stuck in my head for a while.

If you would like to check out mine or Parissa's video just search:

Parissa Koo on Facebook.com or

Serena Koo on Youtube.com

We'd like to thank Neil Berg and everyone else who let us share this wonderful experience!